

Jakob Lorber: The Household of God (Volumes 1-3).

2. What happened before Adam?

In the beginning of the Old Testament appears, in addition to information for the creation of planet Earth plus Adam and Eve, unexpectedly a serpent. It seduces Eve, and with her and Adam's disobedience, the story of humanity unfolds. Moses, during the time of the law, some fifteen-hundred years before Christ, writes about it. The beginning was not a pretty one.

In volume 1 of The Household of God, the Lord - through Lorber - adds to this information. Not until the 19th century we discover in light of a new era who this serpent was. And where it came from. Lucifer is presented in two forms. As the First, who at the time of the Big Bang rose up against God, taking along a huge following. And as Santana, the unspeakably beautiful, powerful and glorious wife of the Lord.

Lucifer, through Eve's seduction, accompanied by Adam's carelessness, with Cain's birth advance to humanity's co-fatherhood. How did the Lord react? With His death on the cross, Anno Zero, He redeemed humanity from the bonds of matter and physical death, which resulted from Adam and Eve's disobedience, and provided for their return to God.

Yes, I know, it sounds like the same old canard we heard, first from the Catholic Church, and since the Renaissance also from the Protestant Church. Often enough without anything happening in a listener's or reader's heart. But wait, more is on the way.

In Jakob Lorber: The Household of God, we get to know the universe in its overall context, just as the sciences today have come to recognise it. We learn everything about God and man. All in such detail that everyone who wants to be convinced, and follows the Lord's call, can indeed follow him. His heart is touched, because he understands God welcomes not only humanity but old Lucifer (the created being) himself as prodigal son with open arms and in exceeding anticipation.
